AI Daily

This is AI Daily. Here are the key changes and primary source details.

Claude Haiku 5.5, Anthropic’s newest lightweight model, is now generally available in GitHub Copilot. It is designed for fast, high-volume work like subagents, quick edits, and terminal tasks. In early testing, Haiku 5.5 matched Claude Sonnet 5 on many coding tasks while using significantly fewer tokens and steps.

Local sandboxing for GitHub Copilot is now generally available in GitHub Copilot CLI, the GitHub Copilot app, and VS Code sessions using Agent Host. Local sandboxes give developers a secure execution boundary for agentic workflows on their own machines. Tools and commands initiated by Copilot run with restricted access to the filesystem, network, credentials, and other system capabilities, based on policies defined by the developer or their organization.

Step 5 Preview, Step Fun's flagship model, is now available on AI Gateway. It's built for agentic coding, professional knowledge work, and financial analysis, from building apps and debugging code to research and analytical reports. Step

5 Preview supports text and image input with a 1M-token context window, allowing you to work with large codebases, a stack of documents, or screenshots and charts in a single request.

Grok Imagine Video 1.5 Lite from xAI is now available on AI Gateway. This lightweight model turns text prompts and images into video with native audio. The model produces clips from 1 to 15 seconds long in 480p, 720p, and 1080p.

Computer use and browser use toolsets are now built into the Python and TypeScript SDKs for Claude. The API tells you what Claude wants to click or type. Previously, you had to write your own loop and map clicks and keystrokes to commands, but the SDKs now run the loop.

In the app, add a supported provider under Settings, in the Model providers section. Choosing a local model doesn't turn on offline mode or disable GitHub telemetry.

GPT-6 and Intelligent UI, now rolling out in ChatGPT for everyone. Intelligent UI in ChatGPT delivers fast, interactive answers that make everyday questions more visual, complex topics easier to grasp, and interactive tools for your task available on the spot.
